BY LAND AND SEA.

Notwithstanding Germany's announcement of a war at sea around the British Isles, and a place blockade, "All's well that ends well" will be the motto with the British and Canadian Navigation Companies, Mr. Thomas Robb, Secretary of the Canadian Shipping Federation, said: "This latest threat by Germany has had considerable perturbation among the Canadian shipping companies. It creates terrible things, we everybody knows that if Germany did begin to do these things, she would have been doing them long ago. In the meantime, the various lines calling from and to Canada as usual."

"So far as the Canadian Pacific is concerned," said Mr. G. M. Brown, vice-president of the C.P.R., in charge of steamships, "no change is anticipated in view of the fact that our ships, which will be required to travel from Great Britain and from Canada, and, in view of the manner in which the British navy commands the ocean, we do not look for any special difficulty."

The New York press is quite outspoken in condemnation of Germany's actions, and threats are made that the Kaiser will sink U.S. vessels at his bidding. In reference to flying neutral flags it is pointed out by one of the New York papers that the Germans did a lot of her depreciation against British vessels flying neutral flags. Now, entering a harbor and displaying a Russian warship, and other vessels while flying such a flag, and the Germans thought it was safe. The "Dreadnaut" and "Karlsruhe" also being condemned, and, vicariously by vessels carrying neutral flags.

The case of the Louisiana flying the Stars and Stripes will likely cause considerable discussion. There is no law against such a proceeding, and the vessel was carrying both the U. S. mails and U. S. passengers. Some may wish that Britain did not do such a thing as lower the U. S. flag in case of capture. But you have to fight the devil with fire, and no doubt the captain was justified in taking every measure possible to save both his cargo and crew.

Russian officially claims successes in the Caucasus, and has taken important positions near Meshcherka, occupying three villages and forcing the enemy to retreat north of the Ural Plateau. Until lately the Grand Duke has been content to act on the defense front of Warsaw. Now, however, he has begun to take the offensive in the rear, and now, despite constant纠缠, is generally adopted. When the water is wanted, an indicator is illuminated by an electric switch worked by the customer. To protect a lifeboat, the oil coming in the tank is carried by the action of the wind and waves until the boat is well away from the neighborhood in a state of calm.

The enthusiastic lover who finds even the brightest pearl, in a totally inadequate medium for the expression of his glowing sentiments, may use a luminous writing fluid. This illuminating ink, which is impregnated with radium, is used to give the receiver the power to perceive his correspondence in the dark. The India rubber heel is fireproofed with a rival in the shape of a spring, which an inventor has introduced into the heel of a shoe. This arrangement reduces vibration caused by walking, and, consequently, should prove beneficial to those who walk a great deal.

It is not to be wondered at that the north bank of the Vistula, is shaking the progress of East Prussia, and on the very frontier of West Prussia. The result of the flanking movement in East Prussia has been, the despatches say, to spread panic in the country and to send tens of thousands of the inhabitants of the smaller districts to the more secure districts of Germany.

Although the fighting is more or less continuous in the western war zone, and advances here and there are made, it looks now as if Kitchener was correct when he said the war will begin in May, as far as the Central Powers are concerned. France and Russia are holding their own and perhaps a little more. But it will not be until Britain's new army reaches the front that the war will be begun in earnest.

INVENTIONS OF 1914.

Notwithstanding the motto "Business as Usual," it must be admitted that, in the opinion of the inventors, the year 1914 has proved far from normal. From special information communicated by Messrs. Hughes & Young, Patent Agents, of 56-58, Chancery Lane, London, W. C., we gather that a Great Britain, during the above period there has been a number of new types of applications for patents. Whereas, in 1913, the number of patents applied for was 30,182—practically the same as the preceding year—the total of 1914 amounts to 34,847. The causes of this increase are not difficult to find, there is the intense interest of the world trades inevitably consequent upon the great war. And, secondly, the cessation of applications from hostile countries accounts materially for the diminution. As regards the latter case, it should be noted, for the first year in the history of German invention, nothing in the United Kingdom has been very considerable.

With respect to the world, of invention generally some devices of a striking character have made their appearance during the year. For instance, a motor car without wheels is undoubtedly a singular contrivance. This extraordinary vehicle has been specially designed for passing over rough ground, and is built on a chassis. Two wheels are mounted on a frame which has been devised by an English university graduate, is mounted on a collapsible tripod. In connection with a signaling device is a wireless apparatus mounted on an automobile of special design that of the United States. The inventor has invented a useful service for field gun. The axle is so arranged that one or both of the wheels may be laid on the ground. Both wheels are placed flat, and, staked to the ground when the gun is fired. A patent of physician, who has invented a chair which can be converted into a deck chair, a upper deck which can be folded up, and will fold and fit into the back when the back is flat.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The financial pressure on Germany is shown by several of her banks passing their dividends.

The death of the Marquis of Londonderry removes one of the leaders of the Ulster revolt against Home Rule.

A movement is on foot to have the Scottish Highlands repopulated with Scotch veterans after the war is over.

The Pope's prayer for peace was repeated in all the Belgian churches yesterday. The German soldiers of the Catholic faith participated in the services.

Beck's Weekly, Montreal, says: "If Mr. Bowell can work up as much enthusiasm about Prohibition as he did about the Canadian Club about War, it is rather a surprise that there are any bars left in Ontario."

It would be great if Canada could finance without injury to herself, her own war measures, instead of having to ask Britain for the loan of the old country must have enough to meet its expenses and to help the monied men and money institutions of the Dominion would come forward and provide the Federal Government with the sinews of war. We cannot all fight, but we can all pay taxes. Could not Canada's wealthy people lend the government that hundred millions dollars? We believe they could.

Wenworth—This "very prosperous" town, situated in the British Columbia, has many sources of salt-water and truck raising, canning and jam factories, pack-horse stock and a large number of fruit trees.

Weston—The town of Weston, in Ontario, has a population of 11,000, in 1913, in mineral fruits, 1,175; in vineyards, 2,790. Live stock: horses, 13,441; milch cows, 2,000; swine, 25,465; in hay, 55,263 acres; forero for pigs, 7,135; oats, 27,460; barley, 2,000; wheat, 1,000. The town is greatly improved by an excellent system of railway and electric radial lines for distribution of products.

Mr. N. R. Bowell's "war speech" is meeting with much commendation all over the Dominion. The Canadian War, for example, a non-partisan paper published in Toronto, says editorially:

It is but justice to say that Mr. Bowell has in his speech shown more realization of what we are up against than any man I have ever heard speak.

Mr. Bowell, my dear, I have at last found the key to success, as far as I am not able to find the keyholes.
